

Staying Cool

 fennec fox

It is sunny in the desert.
Sunlight heats the land.
It is hot, but this fox stays cool.

The fox's ears help it stay cool.
They are big.
Heat leaves the fox's body
through its ears.

The fox's feet help it stay cool.
They are furry.
The fur protects the fox's feet
from hot sand.

den

The fox looks for shade.
A tree blocks sunlight.
This shady spot is cooler.

The fox goes in its den.
Sunlight does not shine there.
It is cool under the ground.

At night, there is no sunlight.
The desert is cooler now.
The fox comes out of its den.

The fox hunts for food.
It finds a good meal.
The fox stays cool at night.
